DAVID PETERSON of Eden Prairie got the chance to do some waterskiing Friday, but not on a lake and not behind a power boat. No, David was skiing on a flooded soybean field behind an International Harvester tractor driven by his uncle Sever Peterson, above. The field was flooded last week as the Minnesota River overflowed its banks for the umpteenth time and onto Peterson crop land in the valley. With Sever on the tractor and David on skis, the Petersons were able to do their “trick” several times up and down the equivalent of about two or three city blocks. (Photo by Mark Weber)
